07/12/2017 16:27:44 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Students should be exposed to many aspects of history, not just textbook version. I love the idea that other teachers are adapting other ideas and voices!

07/12/2017 16:28:26 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: Teacher-created PowerPoints are also informative and more attractive to students

07/12/2017 16:28:28 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: Veronica, this is one of the great injustices of how we teach history

07/12/2017 16:28:29 Sarah Purdy: U.S. immigration history video: <https://youtu.be/Fe79i1mu-mc>

07/12/2017 16:28:43 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: talking about maps, would be a great idea to have realistic map (I'll have to find the name of it) on the wall that puts continents in proper size so US and Europe aren't dominant

07/12/2017 16:28:56 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: the textbook version is certainly not the only version

07/12/2017 16:28:58 Kimberly G. from Farmington, Michigan: Oh, yes! Lesson on map projections.

07/12/2017 16:29:40 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Federico, aged. I love that we have so many resources out there, to change the dialogue to include other voices, and connect with all students.

07/12/2017 16:30:06 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Where does this resource come from, I think I missed the link?

07/12/2017 16:30:18 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: and one of problems left out is that many of the "waves" of immigration were generated by our own policies in other parts of the world

07/12/2017 16:30:33 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: too bad they left off HI since it was big place for immigration of Asians

07/12/2017 16:31:52 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: Yay, HI showed up!

07/12/2017 16:32:06 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: This is ppretty cool: Could it be halted to allow for discussion and clarification during a class

07/12/2017 16:32:10 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: It is interesting as this does not cover Hawaii, to see how during the time the Chinese were excluded from the lower 48, Hawaii, that was not a state yet was allowing Japanese and Chinese women to immigrate to marry Chinese farm workers in the sugar and pineaple industries

07/12/2017 16:32:28 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: 1 in 8 are immigrants

07/12/2017 16:32:34 Gillian B. from Somerville, MA: powerful video

07/12/2017 16:33:38 Denzil Mohammed: Link to the video:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Fe79i1mu-mc>

07/12/2017 16:33:45 Karrie R. from Syracuse, NY: Current administration should watch this.

07/12/2017 16:33:47 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: I like the video, but there's an awful lot going on simultaneously with it. With my ESL students, we'd need to watch it at least 3 or 4 times.

07/12/2017 16:34:11 Kimberly G. from Farmington, Michigan: Thanks, Denzil!

07/12/2017 16:34:17 Gillian B. from Somerville, MA: The video could provide a month of teaching material

07/12/2017 16:34:22 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: or keep pausing the video to talk about it

07/12/2017 16:34:33 Liz L. from Arlington, VA: I agree Julie, especially my students who are low beginning. They would have to watch it several times but wonderful video

07/12/2017 16:34:33 Vivian M. from Corning, NY: loved the ending of the video! "less than 2% of the US population has Native American ancestry." Meaning We are pretty much ALL immigrants.

07/12/2017 16:34:40 Meg M. from Hingham, MA: What a great video. Americans don't know this history well. It should be required viewing foreveryone registering to vote!

07/12/2017 16:34:40 Kimberly G. from Farmington, Michigan: Could return to this video time and time again over an entire curriculum.

07/12/2017 16:34:43 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: great for receptive lesson

07/12/2017 16:34:59 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: Good suggestions, but my slightly ADD bent makes it hard for me to enjoy it.

07/12/2017 16:35:09 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: So distracting.

07/12/2017 16:35:10 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: Yes, Julie, with lower level ESL students I would slow down the video or stop it and start it over and over to give students time to read and think

07/12/2017 16:35:46 Kimberly G. from Farmington, Michigan: I wish I could take this class!

07/12/2017 16:35:50 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: I wonder if there's something a bit slower or more straightforward that we could use.

07/12/2017 16:35:51 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: for receptive lesson, i'd show it all the way through once, then in short segments followed by activities

07/12/2017 16:36:02 Ahuva H. from Brooklyn NY: Drifing Sound Again!

07/12/2017 16:36:06 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: and San Antonio

07/12/2017 16:36:30 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: This is one of my very favorite topics, and a great opportunity to talk about the colonization and it's effects, which can be ver y good for discussion and open, honest dialogue about marginalization,

07/12/2017 16:36:49 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: i'll try to find my '90s articles because thie is what they were about--would need to be updated but great history resource

07/12/2017 16:37:53 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: This connects well with current events, as Indigenous people become more vocal and are at the forefront of environmental activism.

07/12/2017 17:10:36 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: These story telling projects are fantastic! I wanted to remind everyone that TEACHERS also need a chance to tell their stories. Stories of the challenges and rewards; of what keeps us ticking; our own immigrant story (if applicable); stories of that intractable problem.

07/12/2017 17:10:46 Denzil Mohammed: Check out our video interview series with immigrant entrepreneurs: <http://www.ilctr.org/promoting-immigrants/video-interviews/>

07/12/2017 17:12:37 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: Yes, Veronica, but teacher stories help US build community. Teachers telling stories to other teachers help us see we are not alone, solve problems, think things from a different perspective, and learn from each other

07/12/2017 17:12:53 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: gym class--it must be traumatic for them! it's hard enough for native-born students.

07/12/2017 17:13:24 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Got it, this makes sense.

07/12/2017 17:14:11 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: How did you pay for the physical books?

07/12/2017 17:14:31 Beth E. from Burlington, VT: @Julie, you can check in with organizations in your area... I see you're not far from Keene. I know they have events there, and there is a refugee resettlement organization. Other EL teachers can be a good resource as well. As can University programs.

07/12/2017 17:14:52 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: Thanks, Beth!

07/12/2017 17:15:21 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: I did really well organizing book drives with churches.

07/12/2017 17:16:28 Julie M. from Spofford, NH: Good idea, Federico! I was referring, though, to the books the students make, ie through Shutterfly.

07/12/2017 17:16:37 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: yes, Federico--engage local churches. so useful to both parties, and helps students of other faiths know there are community religious communities that welcome them.

07/12/2017 17:16:42 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: I need to advocate in my school for the refugees and immigrant students, using some of these tools. Our school is new to these students, just last year my total group of ELs jumped from 15 across the school to 40!

07/12/2017 17:16:46 Julie K. from Tucson, AZ: district foundations and school alum associations have provided mini-grants to support publishing in my work; when I was in NYC, we did candy sales and other fundraisers to pay for publishing; also finding a publishing house that likes your project and wants to support is key as you can get discounts

07/12/2017 17:17:11 Sara Staedicke from Boston , Massachusetts: Julie's Dropbox folder:
<https://www.dropbox.com/sh/c09fnwhbynz9nq8/AACy6XnfY1QV12Beyiqd7cEYa?dl=0>

07/12/2017 17:17:12 Beth E. from Burlington, VT: donorschoose.org is always a great way to get support

07/12/2017 17:17:16 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: at my church I created a "Literary Cafe" for people to read their favorite stories (original or not) over wine and cheese and deserts (donated) and the way to be admitted was to bring a bag of donated books

07/12/2017 17:17:34 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: great idea, federico!

07/12/2017 17:17:48 Claire from Syracuse, NY: Yes thank you so much!

07/12/2017 17:17:56 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: Every year I collect about 200 books in one short evening for students and their families

07/12/2017 17:18:09 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Crowd-sourced books--great idea!

07/12/2017 17:19:27 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: Hello Beth! I referred donorschoose.org on this site yesterday during Webinar...it is a great site for requesting donations while promoting your classroom.

07/12/2017 17:20:05 Damaris G. from San Antonio, Texas: love what elizabeth is sharing: different types of stories shared, giving them options, all stories are worth telling and remembering

07/12/2017 17:20:10 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: Teacher stories are powerful and important. Some faculty members don't feel understood or valued . I saw this make a huge difference with a teacher who was an immigrant from the Caribbean. She became a resource to other teachers after having the opportunity to tell her story (as everyone did) in PD.

07/12/2017 17:20:30 Julie K. from Tucson, AZ: Yes, options and respect for students' boundaries and safety.

07/12/2017 17:20:57 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: agree with you, Eileen

07/12/2017 17:21:02 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: As I have noted yesterday on teh Webinar forum....immigrants must first be accepted to be heard!!!

07/12/2017 17:21:06 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: the

07/12/2017 17:22:18 Julie K. from Tucson, AZ: "make space for students to pass" - that is truly honoring students and their human agency

07/12/2017 17:22:28 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Yes, I have to be especially careful in a K-5 school, there are a lot of protocols in place in our district for recording, photos, etc, or using online tools that involve a social network.

07/12/2017 17:22:31 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: PD's are not the best place to tell your story....yet, most teachers seem interested only in the question: where are you from? They stall after that....

07/12/2017 17:23:03 Denzil Mohammed: Good point Arlene, yes.

07/12/2017 17:23:17 Denzil Mohammed: Alaska is here!

07/12/2017 17:23:20 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: Arlene - That's why I love the exercise "Where I'm From." Everyone can think of a food or a sound from their childhood.

07/12/2017 17:23:49 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: PLC's are district-wide here, but, diversity seem distant to their dialogue.

07/12/2017 17:23:50 Ahuva H. from Brooklyn NY: B'klyn Arts & Culture

07/12/2017 17:24:42 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: Four Freedoms Coalition in Berkshires, MA

07/12/2017 17:24:55 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: When I ask adults to write about "home," I do give option of writing abou home they created if home they grew up in was too painful to recall. Rarely taken up on it, but I have seen that this is important to offer.

07/12/2017 17:24:56 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: Arlene, I am interested in hearing why PD is not the best place for teachers to tell their story; I find it quite the opposite (assuming here that you mean PD days...) I do work with adult educatoin, though, so it may be a different situation.

07/12/2017 17:25:41 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: I also had students write about their "dream" home. Some were very uneasy to share much about their real homes

07/12/2017 17:25:56 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: I was referring to: stories of an immigrant....culture, lifestyle, whatever the topic might be.....just basic simple conversations.....

07/12/2017 17:25:56 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: i like the dream home idea

07/12/2017 17:26:15 Emily F. from north carolina: I shared my story in a PD and it was very powerful! I think teachers NEED to hear students' stories

07/12/2017 17:26:21 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: The PD for teachers' stories has to be a safe place. Can't be a place where someone is charged with being "racist" or attacked for choices.

07/12/2017 17:26:34 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: PD's seem to focus only on CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION.....

07/12/2017 17:26:49 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: Oh! Test scores as well...

07/12/2017 17:26:59 Gillian B. from Somerville, MA: also always time limited

07/12/2017 17:27:08 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: Younger students I've worked with are all over the map on their ability to share. I think coming up with different ways, as these ladies suggest, like a menu of choices, is a great idea.

07/12/2017 17:27:14 Leticia B. from Glenwood Springs, Col: PDs are dialogic spaces for transformation. Teachers' biographies matter too

07/12/2017 17:27:16 Emily F. from north carolina: It needs to get personal, Arlene. If we want to tuch teachers' hearts...it must get personal

07/12/2017 17:27:17 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: This is the tim we need to raise the importance of PD on equity - and that begins with teacher introspection about their own assumptions based on their experiences and personal culture

07/12/2017 17:28:14 ARLENE ANN M. from Chesapeake: Until we learn to embrace the various facets of immigrants and diversity, we are unable to accommodate the demands of immigrants and learning how to expose their understanding of our culture.

07/12/2017 17:28:22 Julie K. from Tucson, AZ: Thank you all very much! This entire webinar has been outstanding! I'm very appreciative.

07/12/2017 17:28:22 Gillian B. from Somerville, MA: I'm thinking of integrating that bias thing from yesterday into the PD I offer my teachers

07/12/2017 17:28:31 Dianne d. from Pittsfield, MA: I'm so glad I signed up for this webinar--thank you so much, everyone!

07/12/2017 17:28:32 Leticia B. from Glenwood Springs, Col: Herrera and Murry (2016) talk about mutual accommodation, and teachers have to reflect on their own stories

07/12/2017 17:28:40 Eileen Kugler from Washington, DC: "understanding our Diverse Students by Understanding Ourselves First" <http://pdkintl.org/blogs/learning-on-the-edge/understanding-our-diverse-students-by-understanding-ourselves-first/>

07/12/2017 17:28:41 Cate C from New York: Thank you to everyone for such a great webinar!!!

07/12/2017 17:28:48 Veronica (Ronni) N. from Tucson, AZ: We've had some exercises in understanding Bias in PD, but it seemed canned and I don't think it accomplished much. This type of space would be best to learn about these issues.

07/12/2017 17:29:04 Leticia B. from Glenwood Springs, Col: Sharing stories is a reciprocal process

07/12/2017 17:29:06 Maeve W. from Somerville: Thank you, Denzil for this wonderful webinar!

07/12/2017 17:29:50 Leticia B. from Glenwood Springs, Col: Veronica, what do you do during PD to address bias?

07/12/2017 17:29:56 Federico Salas-Isnardi from Texas A&M University: I agree, Julie. It was excellent. I learned so much from all the presenters and from all of you participating.
